School Board Votes Not To Renew Tucker's Contract

On request from T. E. Pittman, Resident Engineer Virginia Department of Highways, the School Board adopted a resolution supporting a proposed plan to improve Evergreen Avenue from Route 727 (at A. R. Harwood residence). With the completion of the new county high school set for Fall of 1974 it is felt that this improvement would be justified in order to accommodate school bus traffic and provide better access to school property.

The board approved the Title I Summer Program for the 1972-73 session to be conducted at Appomattox Primary School. There will be approximately 140 students enrolled in the program and seven teachers and eight teacher-aides will be employed.

Superintendent Peyton presented the school calendar for the 1973-74 school session to the board and it was approved as presented. A copy of the school calendar will be printed in the TIMES-VIRGINIAN at a later date.

BANJO PICKERS TO BE IN APPOMATTOX MEMORIAL DAY WEEKEND

Appomattox site. He said more than 50 acres of land have been rented for campers attending the festival. Wolfe noted that the Virginia State String Music Association will sponsor at leàst 15 festivals this year around the state with others scheduled at Berryville and Buena Vista. he said the SMA is a non-profit organization of musicians dedicated to the revival, presentation and preservation of the early folk arts in America.

Wolfe said the Lynchburg-Roanoke area has a rich heritage in folk and bluegrass music, adding that bluegrass music began in Marion when Jack Reedy began "picking the banjo" instead of "claw-hammering" it. He said Reedy, a furniture worker, put a pick on each finger in the late 1920's to play for Eleanor Roosevelt at the White Top Mountain Fiddlers Convention in Smyth County. That was the first fiddler's convention and has been sponsored annually in recent years by the National Forestry Service. Wolfe said Reedy went on to play banjo for a Bristol radio station, where Tennessee Ernie Ford was an entertainer.

More than 5,000 persons from the Norfolk area alone are slated to attend the festival, which will feature "thousands of banjos" from places as far away as Washington, San Francisco, Houston, Oklahoma City and Chicago.

At least 1,000 craftsmen, banjo makers and arts and crafts workers will also be on hand to sell their wares at the festival, which Wolfe says will wind up with a massive banjo finale playing the gospel hymn "Amazing Grace" following runoffs Monday.

According to Wolfe, more than 400 members have already joined the Virginia State String Music Association, which has $5 membership fee.

Further information on the festival is available by writing Wolfe at Box 8068 in Roanoke or calling 344-1000.
